

Bells are Honored as Parents

A Newark couple, Charles and Lillie Bell, were among 35 couples honored last month at the seventh Annual National Parents of the Year Ceremony in Washington, D.C.

Bell, a former president of the Newark Board of Education, and his wife were selected for the honor by the New Jersey Parents' Day Council, a project of the American Family Coalition. The dinner is

"Charles and Lillie Bell are among the outstanding couples to be honored for representing the finest qualities in parents and serving as role models for our fellow citizens of our great state," said Larry Haft, the New Jersey project coordinator.

WHERE ARE YOUR IMPORTANT PAPERS

We all hope to lead long, healthy, and self-sufficient lives. However, there is always a chance that unexpected events may require family members to act on your behalf. In this case, a Financial Inventory is one of the documents they will need.

A financial inventory is a written record of financial information that may be needed in an emergency. The inventory should list telephone numbers, addresses, and account numbers for all financial accounts, insurance policies, personal property, investments, credit cards, and other assets or important papers.

This form is provided for your use in creating a Financial Inventory. Simply fill in the information and distribute copies to the family members or other individuals who would be responsible for your care should you become unable to care for yourself. You should also provide a copy to your attorney, if you have one.

Please Note: This form is provided for your personal use and for those who would care for you in an emergency.
